Our quarterly fees and annual fees are charged in advance. If you open an account that operates on a quarterly fee basis your first charge will apply from the following quarter unless you open the account on the first day of the quarter. No refund of these fees is given if you close your account. New SIPPs opened during the year will pay a proportionate charge covering the period from the beginning of the month after the account is opened up to the following 31 January and is collected shortly after the account is opened. Please note you will only ever incur either the SIPP (Savings) or SIPP (Income) annual charge and not both.
